ADDITIONAL SUMMER COURSES

(10200) COLG 280-03A: Economic Development and Social Change in China, 2 credits

Faculty Moderator – Vilma Walter

Dates: May 20 through June 12

The focus of this program will be region appropriate, emphasizing economic development and social change in China. Given its proximity to Hong Kong, Guangdong Province has been at the forefront of economic development and change in China over the past 25 years. With this theme the course will be attractive to and useful for CSB/SJU students in several disciplines, including Asian studies, History, Political science, Communication, Economics, Sociology, Social Work, and Management. The Program will take advantage of the remarkable access granted to us by many leading Honk Kong and Chinese businessmen and women who are CSB/SJU alumni.

Students will experience and learn about Chinese societal and economic development issues through a one month immersion in Southeast Chinese culture. The course will include travel to Hong Kong, Shenzhen, Zhuhai, Guangzhou, Zhanjiang and Hainan Island, two major seminars taught by CSB/SJU and Zhanjiang faculty members, supporting seminars in Intercultural Communication, Chinese language, Chinese history, Chinese culture, and Chinese Gongfu, visits to historic sites, and Chinese host family experience. Students will be required to write in journals on daily basis and to write one major paper. Evaluations will be based on the writing assignments and on attendance and effort shown during the course of the program.

Approximate Fee for trip: $3,800

(10201) SPAN 355-01A: Spanish Theater from Romanticism to the Civil War (1833-1936), 4 credits

Faculty Moderator - José Antonio Fábres

Note: Course will be taught by qualified Spanish professor on site

Dates: June 21 through July 27

This course will explore through a series of texts the transformation and changes in the genre in Spain in the period that runs from the Romanticism to the Spanish Civil War. The goal of this course is to examine the works representative of these periods, the radical differences in their structure, and the series of demands on the playwright which include those of the public which can condition and undermine his/her creative freedom. This is what was called Borel's possible and impossible theatre, a formula which explains well the possibility of debuting of many of the plays during the first third of the 20th century.

(10202) SPAN 355-02A: Fin de siècle Spanish Literature, 4 credits

Faculty Moderator - José Antonio Fábres

Note: Course will be taught by qualified Spanish professor on site

Dates: June 21 through July 27

Objectives: Through the analysis of a series of literary texts students will be exposed to the global phenomenon known as the fin de siècle crisis. This phenomenon adopted different characteristics depending on the country in which it was experienced, but in the Hispanic world it had very specific aspects that it shared with western, and particularly the European world. In the Hispanic culture, this moment also known as the generation of 98 and modernismo—labels which live today in criticism—, but which in recent years are seen as the same phenomenon. Much like the two sides of the deep crisis that positivism must confront, the fin de siècle crisis makes connections with certain historical events that generate cultural and literary diversity as a new century begins.

Dates: May 14 to June 8

Days & time: Monday, Wednesday & Friday from 8:30-11:30 in ARDLF 143
