SPRING EMBEDDED 2020 STUDY ABROAD COURSE

BRAZIL
INEQUALITY, RACE, AND GENDER

On Campus: March 11-May 8 2020
Off Campus: May 11-May 31, 2020

POLSi 358D (4 credits) combines classroom learning at CSB/SJU during CD mod and ends with an experiential component abroad! Learn about the relationship between development, inequality, race, and gender in Brazil then engage in an international experiential setting to finish the course.

Online Application Deadline: October 24, 2019 at Noon.
COURSE HIGHLIGHTS

- Visit one of Brazil’s oldest, largest, and most diverse state to better understand the relationship between gender, race, and inequality in the country.
- Become immersed in the culture of Salvador through events at the Federal University, various cultural and educational events, and staying with a host family.
- Through lectures and informal conversations, obtain a deeper understanding of the current Brazilian political landscape and its connection to issues of race, gender, and inequality.
- Visit various sites in the state of Bahia and see first hand the differences between urban, rural, and coastal life in Brazil.

FINANCES

Program cost and billing details can be found on our website.

The program fee includes:
- Housing while the program is in session
- Three meals per day and laundry at home stay
- Program related excursions, entrance fees, & transportation
- Transportation for program related activities
- CISI Medical & Evacuation Insurance

DIRECTOR INFORMATION

Pedro dos Santos teaches in the Political Science Department. His teaching focus is on comparative politics, gender and politics, and the Global South. His research focus is on women’s representation in Brazil, and he spends most summers in the country conducting fieldwork for his research projects.

www.csbsju.edu  •  cge@csbsju.edu  •  320-363-5952  •  Academic Service Building, CSB

HOUSING

Students stay with host families (two students per family). Host families live in houses or apartments in the same neighborhood, also close to other activities and events we will attend during our stay. Host families provide students three meals a day as well as free laundry facilities. Students will also have access to internet.